Type of query: Search with expert mode

What is a search with expert mode or user-specific profile?

A search in the wmView query profiles with expanded search criteria, called expert mode, or a search within a user-specific query profile.

The main content area is a search form with the following structure:

What is a hit list?

A hit list is displayed by WMACCESS, if your search criteria have lead to more than one hit. In these cases, a hit list is displayed initially.

The screenshot shows the WMACCESS application window. The title bar reads "winflow - Busch, Steffen & WMACCESS - Windows Internet Explorer". The main window has a header with "winflow" and "WMACCESS". Below the header, there is a tab labeled "[1] Dividend and Coupon Payments - Export" and a "Query Reference" button. The main content area displays a table with the following columns: ISIN, Security Sheet Name, WKN, Ex date, Dividend proposal, and Div. payment type. The table contains 15 rows of data, all for the ISIN LU0062625115 and WKN 974588. The dividends are categorized as "04 Distribution of earnings" and "10 Cash distribution". The table is paginated, showing "1 to 15 of 15" results.

Tips:

- A targeted search with further search criteria such as an Ex-date may lead to the event that only one hit is found which will lead directly to a detail display. In this event you spare the hit list and thus the query of the category T2.
- The hit list can be printed out free of charge. This information may be helpful to provide future queries for the same security with additional search criteria and thus get directly to a detail display.
